

Attention spans are short and Zoom fatigue is real.

Keep people engaged with your content - make it memorable by showing your message. Remind viewers of your key points with an "illustrated takeaway" in your follow up email, or share it on social media.

I observe, listen, then internally process and synthesise your content into key messages that I feel others will emotionally connect with. All visual translations are drawn by hand digitally and can be synthesised content from a variety of sources, such as pre-recorded workshops, written documents, annual plans, audio discussions or just ideas that you have.
